RIOT GAMES
SOFTWARE ENGINEER

Dear Riot Games,

I'm interested in the software engineer opening on the R&D engineering team, especially the R&D test engineering team mentioned in the position description.

Starting from my internships, I've worked as software engineer in test focusing on building automation framework for different platforms. Right now I am responsible for leading a small team performing maintenances for an automation testing framework which I built from scratch. I have a passion towards building tools which make lives simpler and easier for software engineers.

Working in gaming industry has always been a dream for me since childhood. I play all kinds of games across all genres and finally landed in MOBA(League of course), MMORPG(6-year wow guild leader), and metrovania indie games(Hollow Knight, Axiom Verge, etc.). With the rising esports scene, it is also my daily habit to open up a professional game and watch it on TV during dinner time. Playing a few league games before sleep has also becoming my daily routine, which has helped me improve my quality of sleep quite a bit.

I'm also fascinated by how rioters respond to random posts on reddit. I've never seen any gaming company this size emphasizes so much on the general discussions. This makes me feel very comfortable as a gamer myself, and very optimistic about riotgames as a company.

So I asked myself: why not combine work and interest together? And here I am writing this cover letter hoping for a hit. Thanks for your time and hopefully we can speak soon!

Sincerely,

Xiao Meng Wei
